

Kingston Attorney Isaacs Honored as SuperLawyer in 2022 Review

For the 13th time in a row, Princeton attorney Hanan M. Isaac's has been named a top tier lawyer in New Jersey.

Mr. Isaacs is an attorney with the Kingston Law Group, serving Princeton and all parts of Central Jersey.

The announcement was made by the New Jersey SuperLawyers magazine. The magazine annually reviews attorneys from across the state and chooses the top five percent practicing lawyers around the state for the listing.

Mr. Isaacs was first named to the list in 2010 and has received this high honor every year since.

Said Isaacs, "SuperLawyers does not give this recognition lightly. They annually select the top lawyers in every legal specialty throughout the State. The review team examines each nominee, their work, case outcomes, and more. According to the publisher, making the list even once shows a huge dedication to the practice of law and the clients served."

Being listed 13 times in a row requires a commitment to the practice of law that is second to none.

In addition to law practice, publisher SuperLawyers Magazine looks at how the attorney gives back to the profession. In that arena, Mr. Isaacs has been a leader for 43 years. He has served on professional and community boards for his entire career. "A professional mediator and arbitrator, Mr. Isaacs has trained hundreds of CPA's, human resources professionals, lawyers, and other business community members in the art and craft of negotiations, mediation, arbitration and conflict resolution," says the SuperLawyers report on Isaacs's selection.

Mr. Isaacs works every day to improve his chosen field and mentor those just entering the profession. This includes young lawyers, legal interns, and paralegals. He said seeing other people excel with his help is one the greatest gifts he receives.
